

Wiki Tips

Here is where you will find all kinds of tips for helping users unleash the power of the PIUG wiki as a communications medium.

New topics will be published as users and administrators point out issues affecting the community's use of the PIUG wiki.

While the public contents of the PIUG wiki are available to browse and search without logging in, most of the wiki tips will be directed to logging in and accessing content or functionality available only after login. Such restricted content generally requires being recognized as a PIUG member or as a participant in PIUG committees and teams. Only logged-in users may converse with colleagues in discussion forums or blogs (e.g. PIUG Blog), share profile information with and find other users, control email notifications, and manage other wiki settings to maximize the value of being a wiki participant. One only needs to sign up for the PIUG wiki to be able to login; PIUG membership is invited but not required.

You can always get to this and other help pages from the help  icon in the header of each PIUG wiki page.

Please send all suggestions for new topics to Tom Wolff, PIUG wikimaster (wikimaster @ piug.org) as comments to this page.

Help

Show Advanced Filters

Sticky topics on top